War Appraisal to Start In Congress Monday

scrutiny of the Vietnam war United Nations. Monday with a Senate committee scheduled to get a top-secret been "no hard evidence and no appraisal from the director of firm clues" that Hanoi wants to the Central Intelligence Agency. negotiate.

Intelligence chief Richard Helms' briefing of Sen. Richard B. Russell's special CIA sub- The war will be a hot subject of committee Monday — the day debate in the 90th Congress. Helms' annual briefing of before Congress convenes — is expected to include the agency's Senate's CIA panel was expectevaluation of the impact of U.S. bombing on North Vietnam.

The CIA has been reported as skeptical of whether the air attacks are damaging Hanoi's will to continue the war.

Success Questioned

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., a member of the Senate CIA panel, said yesterday the present scale of bombing had not been an "outstanding success" in preventing the infiltration of North Vietnamese troops.

lican Everett M. Dirksen - as heated this year as last. didn't agree in separate preses-

The new Congress opens its larged" for possible negotiations through U.S. efforts at the

Hot Subject

They agreed on one thing

ed to be the start of a parade of officials to present aspects of administration Vietnam policy on Capitol Hill.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has dates with the Senate Forcign Relations Committee for a closed session Jan. 16 and a public hearing Jan. 23.

The committee also has asked Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to testify.

Two senior members of the committee, Sen. John Spark-man, D-Ala., and Sen. Bourke The Senate leaders - Demo-B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, excrat Mike Mansfield and Repub- pressed doubt the debate will be

They contended in interviews sion interviews on whether that because there has been no peace talks appeared any near-Communist response to U.S. er. peace overtures this year, the steam had been taken out of that "the opening has been en-doves" arguments.